WORLD CUP FEVER

Had fun watching the World Cup this year? I bet every house was screaming throughout the Finals' night! Didn't we all predict the game's outcome during the obvious first half? But notice how the whole scenario changed soon after? This is probably how all our lives are going to turn out, one way or another. Imagine had France lost hope in the beginning? Would the world have got to enjoy that amazing game? Such was their ambition. Dreaming high might not always end in victory but the journey is bound to be a learning experience everyone should extol. So set high goals and make sure to enjoy every step.
